QUALIFICATION RULING

In the matter of the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services Ruling Number 2017-4410 August 23, 2016

The grievant has requested a ruling from the Office of Employment Dispute Resolution ("EDR") at the Department of Human Resource Management on whether his June 15, 2016 grievance with the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services (the "agency") qualifies for a hearing. For the reasons discussed below, this grievance does not qualify for a hearing.

FACTS

On or about May 24, 2016, the grievant was issued a Notice of Improvement Needed/Substandard Performance. The grievant initiated a grievance on June 15, 2016, challenging the Notice of Improvement Needed/Substandard Performance. After proceeding through the management resolution steps, the grievance was not qualified for a hearing by the agency head. The grievant now appeals that determination to EDR.

DISCUSSION

Although state employees with access to the grievance procedure may generally grieve anything related to their employment, only certain grievances qualify for a hearing.² Additionally, the grievance statutes and procedure reserve to management the exclusive right to manage the affairs and operations of state government.³ Thus, claims relating to issues such as the methods, means and personnel by which work activities are to be carried out generally do not qualify for a hearing, unless the grievant presents evidence raising a sufficient question as to whether discrimination, retaliation, or discipline may have improperly influenced management's decision, or whether state policy may have been misapplied or unfairly applied.⁴

In this case, the grievant challenges the Notice of Improvement Needed/Substandard Performance as being "unfounded and irresponsible and [he] believe[s] whimsical." While grievances that allege discrimination, retaliation, or a misapplication or unfair application of policy may qualify for a hearing, the grievance procedure generally limits grievances that qualify to those that involve "adverse employment actions." Thus, typically, the threshold question is whether the grievant has suffered an adverse employment action. An adverse employment action is defined as a "tangible employment action constitut[ing] a significant change in employment status, such as hiring, firing, failing to promote, reassignment with significantly different responsibilities, or a decision causing a significant change in benefits." Adverse employment actions include any agency actions that have an adverse effect on the terms, conditions, or benefits of one's employment.

The management action challenged here, a Notice of Improvement Needed/Substandard Performance, is a form of written counseling. It is not equivalent to a Written Notice of formal discipline. A written counseling does not generally constitute an adverse employment action because such an action, in and of itself, does not have a significant detrimental effect on the terms, conditions, or benefits of employment. Therefore, the grievant's claims relating to his receipt of the Notice of Improvement Needed/Substandard Performance do not qualify for a hearing.

While the Notice of Improvement Needed/Substandard Performance has not had an adverse impact on the grievant's employment, ¹⁰ it could be used later to support an adverse employment action against the grievant. Should the Notice of Improvement Needed/Substandard Performance grieved in this instance later serve to support an adverse employment action against the grievant, such as a formal Written Notice or a "Below Contributor" annual performance rating, this ruling does not prevent the grievant from attempting to contest the merits of these allegations through a subsequent grievance challenging the related adverse employment action.

EDR's qualification rulings are final and nonappealable.¹¹
